

Constellation Home Electronics

When you walk into Constellation Home Electronics in downtown Santa Fe, you will immediately notice how unique they are. When you see the entertainment systems displayed in their beautiful showroom it's easy to imagine what it would be like to have them in your own home.

Jason Suttle, the company president, has been passionate about electronics since he was a kid. As a teenager he wired the electronics in his own room and installed car stereos into his friends' cars. When he went to college in Austin, TX, he paid his tuition by installing custom entertainment systems.

At Constellation Home Electronics, they sell everything from $200 speakers to $100,000 media rooms, and everything in between (even record players). But what makes the company special is the service.

Constellation Home Electronics is a full-service home entertainment business offering everything from televisions and speakers to home theaters and complete home automation systems. On the front edge of changes in the industry, the company features 3-D TVs and custom-programmed universal remote controls. But what makes the company special is the exceptional service.

Recently, a last-minute shopper decided to purchase a sound system for his girlfriend on her birthday, at Constellation Home Electronics they created a special card with a picture of the gift she would receive. The courteous and friendly sales and service staff want to make sure each customer leaves satisfied.

At Constellation Home Electronics they understand that home entertainment systems can be complicated, but their mission is to make your system simple, easy and fun. "You shouldn't have to worry about how your home theater works," said Suttle, "it should be as easy as pressing a button."

Next time you are in Santa Fe, stop by the showroom at Constellation Home Electronics to listen to your favorite song or enjoy your favorite movie scene in one of two home theater rooms. A unique Santa Fe experience not to be missed!
